Miss Blanche Matheny

The white truck of the S. & M. line, went to Bartow Tuesday after a load of finished weather-boarding for the new Lunsford store. This is perhaps the first instance in which lumber in bulk has been "imported" for building purposes. The plank is of North Carolina poplar, ready for the wall.

Noah Eckard, of Pendleton county, was in town Tuesday, going from here to the Hightown community to see his daughter. Mr. Eckard, who attended school here, a pupil of the late S. C. Lindsay, is himself a veteran teacher, having been in the business for 41 years. He is the proud father of thirteen children, recognized as a school "average" in Virginia, and possibly in his own state.

See me at the Stock Show and have your eyes examined free. Cunningham Building.

Crabbottom

There was quite a crowd from this place attended the meeting held on Middle Mountain Sunday by Revs. Evans and Maxwell. The day was ideal and everybody enjoyed eating dinner on this mountain, most especially the hands from camp eleven, and they seemed to enjoy every word the minister had to say. The school house was too small to hold half the crowd, so some sat in buggies, some in automobiles and others on the ground and around trees. This scene reminded us of the description given of Jesus preaching to the multitude on the mountain.

Boyd Beverage is through here this week threshing for different parties that did not thresh while Mitchell was around.

William McNulty, Messrs Wiseman and Leach took a fine lot of cattle through here Tuesday.

Miss Elizabeth and Anna Lee Newman, after spending three weeks here among relatives have gone with J. C. Houff to their home in Staunton.

Mrs. Hannah Harold is with her sister, Mrs. Attie Wimer; also Mrs. Maud Corbin came from Fishersville Monday for a short stay with her sisters. Mrs. Harold will return soon to her home in Fontana, Kansas.

Farm For Sale

I will sell on reasonable terms my farm located one mile south of Parnassus, Va., near the Stover and Moscow pike. This farm contains about 228 acres, about 30 acres of good timber, balance in sod and under cultivation. Has on it a good eight room house with cellar under it, good bank barn, tenant house and stable and other buildings usually on a farm. Nice young orchard of all kinds of good fruit. Convenient to churches and school.

A. R. Gikerson, Churchville, Va.

Dental Notice

I have purchased the outfit of the late Dr. E. B. Hill of Marlinton W. Va., and will be in the same office in the First National Bank building after September the 4th to practice dentistry in all of its branches. Prices will be consistent with work which must give satisfaction.

Elements In a Rage

"Did you ever see the like?" Never! "Well, hardly ever."

Interrogatories and answers similar to these were exchanged on Tuesday afternoon when the fury of the storm had spent itself. Not a few of the older people maintain that they have never seen a more severe storm in the Monterey section, and they are probably not far wrong. It combined all the features that tend to excite fear and do damage—rain, hail, wind, thunder and lightning.

The storm, which seemed to be central right here, gathered slowly, the clouds closing in over the town, and in a few minutes Main street assumed a canal appearance, the rain pouring down in blinding sheets, accompanied by a liberal sprinkle of hail-stones and more or less wind.

Immediately in town no damage was done, though the electrical feature of the storm was unusually severe. Just north of town, however, in A. C. Judy's pasture field, C. C. Hansel had a valuable Jersey cow killed by lightning, and J. W. Mackey lost a fine registered bull. They were standing under a small hickory tree when killed. James A. Trimble had two hay-stacks set on fire in his meadow south of town, both being damaged but not entirely burned.

The storm was more violent here than elsewhere, in fact, other nearby neighborhoods escaped even a sprinkle and hay-making was not interrupted. The little streams that have their sources here at the divide were sufficiently swollen, however, and carried with them such debris as to indicate a deluge of huge proportions.

The storm followed a forenoon of intense heat, one of the warmest days of this humid season, but brought relief during the evening and night.

Sympathy is felt for those who suffered pecuniary loss, the heaviest being sustained by Mr. Hansel, the cow lost by him being one of the best in the county.

Valley Center

Rev. S. R. Sneed, after spending a few days in Highland has returned to his work at Romney. Mrs. Sneed and children will remain for some time at the home of her father, C. T. Bird.

KRYPTOKS do away entirely with those two pairs of glasses. KRYPTOKS are good looking. They actually rest the eyes and always are perfect for and near vision. They do not suggest oddness, nor they they indicate advancing years. To all appearances they are solid single vision lenses without seam or cement.
